

Welcome to Anywhere

After getting your ticket at the welcome desk, you prepare yourself for a particular experience. Except that the particularity of it depends only on your ability to perceive through the surface.

Welcome to Anywhere is a site specific intervention and performance in non-places that have been fictionalised by use of light and a certain « mise en scène ».

This project is part of a research on disconnected environments perceived as transit places between the visible and the invisible.

Welcome to Anywhere

Script

First you register at the welcome desk where the hostess gives you a map of the area and a seat number. She invites you to wait for another hostess who will guide you to your seat.

Once comfortably installed you can relax and enjoy the view. Of course you will ask yourself what your are doing there but soon things will start to appears.

When your little journey is done, you can choose for another seat number at the welcome desk or simply come back to your daily life.
